Cram goes to trial next year for 2011 murder

Family storms from courtroom when suspect doesn't show

By Ben Carlson
News staff

A trial date was set Tuesday morning for the man charged with murdering a Clay Burgin Road woman nearly two years ago, but it won't be until next year.

Terrance Cram, who remains incarcerated in the Shelby County

Detention Center since he was apprehended in June of 2011 on charges that he murdered Tena McNeely in January of that year, will now stand trial May 12, 2014. A final pretrial conference is scheduled for April 8, 2014.

Cram was originally supposed to go to trial a year ago this month, but a foul-up in the public defender's office left him without representation during much of that time.

That issue boiled over in July when Circuit Court Judge Charles Hickman scolded the state's Department of Public Advocacy in open court, warning the agency to assign council for Cram and putting the office on notice that no further delays will be tolerated.

Cram did not appear in court Tuesday, much to the dismay of several of McNeely's family members who stormed out of the courtroom after realizing Cram was not among the inmates escorted into the courtroom.

A short time later, Cram's new public defender, Melanie Lowe of the Hellard enters judge race for Family Court

Lawrenceburg native says 'it's time for a change'

By Ben Carlson

Lawrenceburg attorney Marie Hellard has spent the better part of the past two decades representing clients in Family Court.

Now she wants to preside over it.

Hellard filed a letter of intent to run for Family Court judge last week in the 53rd Judicial Circuit which includes Anderson, Shelby and Spencer counties.

Hellard

Judge John David Myles is the incumbent and has held the position since Jan. 1, 2007.

"It's time for a change," Hellard said during a telephone interview. "I would be fair to the people who come before me. I would always consider their positions and be courteous and kind.

"The people who come before you deserve to be treated fairly and equally, and I will be a humble servant of the people."

Hahn enters 2014 race for county clerk

Lifelong Democrat to challenge incumbent Republican Denny

Mud.

That's what Lee Hahn says he won't sling in his attempt to become Anderson County's next clerk.

A lifelong registered Democrat who has served the past 10 years on the Anderson County Board of Education, Hahn officially announced his candidacy last week for county clerk, an office he said he decided to seek about year and a half ago.

Hahn said the reason he wants to run has nothing to do with the way current clerk, Republican Jason Denny, is running the office.

"When I first decided to run the first person I told was Jason," Hahn, 57, said in an interview last week. "We're friends and I've known his dad [Joe] for years.

"I have nothing bad to say about the way he ran his office. You won't hear me beating up on

Burgoo, 'like Daniel Boone did it'

Warford carries on burgoo tradition at annual Farm Bureau meeting

By Ben Carlson

Bring your own bowl.

Say that to longtime Lawrenceburg residents as the leaves begin to turn and they'll know it's time to eat burgoo at the annual Farm Bureau membership meeting.

This year's meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 14 at Eagle Lake Convention Center, with burgoo served at 5:30 p.m.

Although the meeting has changed locations through the decades, one constant remains the same: If it's burgoo at the Farm Bureau meeting, a Warford is doing the cooking.

Davey Warford is the third generation of his family charged with making the unique concoction of meat and vegetables that is sort of like a

What's in it?

It will take plenty of burgoo fixins to feed the 300 to 400 people expected at Monday's annual Farm Bureau meeting.

Davey Warford ticked off a list of ingredients he plans to use to make nearly 100 gallons of burgoo, including:

- 250 pounds of sirloin tips
- 75 pounds of onions
- 5 gallons of tomato juice
- 60 pounds of potatoes
- 3 cans of white corn
- Salt and pepper "as you go"

Misery Manor open Friday, Saturday at Eagle Lake

From staff reports

Misery Manor got off to a frighteningly good start when it debuted last week, and be open again Friday and Saturday.

A fundraiser for Sheriff Troy Young's Shop With a Cop program, Misery Manor will continue scaring people throughout October, including Friday and Saturday from 7:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Eagle Lake Convention Center.

Admission is $5 for the haunted house that features legendary Hollywood psychopaths such as Leatherface, Freddie Kruger and others.

Young estimated nearly 500 people went through the haunted house during its debut last week.

on Jason throughout the campaign. He has a position that I want to have for myself.

"It's about an opportunity."

Following a 17-year career in sales that allowed him to travel across the country, Hahn is now in the cattle business, raising purebred Hereford cattle on his Anderson County farm.

"I'm in a position where I'm available for the job," said Hahn, who graduated from Western High School and earned a marketing degree at Eastern Kentucky.

"What's unique about the cattle business is that in a week's time I can be out of it if I so desire."

"I've got the time, experience and personality to go along with that job, and nothing will keep me from being a fulltime clerk, if that should come up."

Hahn doesn't promise any changes to the office if he's elected, including staff, but he would like to consider different office hours, if possible.

"I'd like to see extended hours on Friday and perhaps Saturday, but I'm not sure if that's allowed," Hahn said.

Hahn spent 17 years as a regional sales representative for Clairol before being downsized out of a job. He said that sales experience along with his time on the school board makes him a good candidate for county clerk.

"In sales, it's different each and every day," Hahn said. "You've got to be able to relate to people and do more listening than talking. "You need to listen to the concerns people have and I'm comfortable with that. After serving on the school board for 10 years, I have an appreciation of people's concerns and listen to what they have to say."

Hahn said he has been asked to run for magistrate and judge-executive, but decided is better suited for county clerk.

"One reason is that it's not as political as county judge, but that's more of a political venue than I'm interested in," he said.

"I have thick skin, but I like sales and [clerk] would give me the opportunity to deal with people on a daily basis.

"There is a lot of responsibility, but as long as you can accommodate customers in a reasonable manner, it doesn't matter which side of the fence you're on as far as politics."

Hahn describes himself as being extremely organized, a hard worker and one known for giving full effort at all times.

"My actions speak as well as my words," he said, "and are a reflection of how hard I work. As a whole, people know that if I'm going to do something, it's 100 percent."

burg, Hellard, 50, said the bulk of her legal career has been in family law, representing victims of domestic violence, neglect, abuse, along with divorce, dependency and juvenile cases.

She said that experience makes her a strong candidate for the position, but her decision to toss her hat in the ring wasn't an easy one.

"I've been practicing in Family Court for 17 years, so it's the next natural step," Hellard said. "In my youth I really wanted to be a judge, but in my practice I felt I was really helping people and was making a difference in their lives."

Hellard said she worked through that dilemma by speaking with her preacher at Hope Community Church.

"He made me think of things I hadn't thought of before," said Hellard, who earned a bachelor's degree in English at the University of Kentucky and law degree at the University of Louisville. "It dawned on me that I could help people [as judge], too, and maybe even reach more people."

"As an attorney, I'm only reaching my clients. As a judge, I can reach every party on every side in all three counties, which made a lot of sense to me."

That Hellard has almost exclusively practiced family law from her office on Main Street is somewhat of a surprise, being that doing so was never her intent.

"When I was in law school I never really focused on family law and didn't desire to practice family law," she said. "But when I started practicing, clients kept coming to me for family law issues."

"That's where I began and that's how it has continued. I never really went out and sought those clients, they sought me out."

Another qualification Hellard cited is her experience as Anderson County's trial commissioner for the past five years.

"[District Court] Judge

[Linda] Armstrong asked me to do that," Hellard said. "You do a lot of emergency custody and domestic violence petitions."

Asked if that helped prepare her to run for Family Court judge, Hellard said, "Absolutely. That's something my pastor pointed out ... that some of the resources we have aren't being utilized."

Hellard said she and her husband, Allen, have raised three children, including one who was placed in her home that was neglected and abused.

"I was able to see what it was like for them and what they go through," she said. "It's tough on those little ones."

Dealing with those issues, she said, is never easy.

"It's very, very difficult and takes an emotional toll on you that you can't imagine," she said.

"But the gratification at the end, if you've helped someone through a situation like that is a crowning achievement."

"If you make a difference in the life of even one child, you are victorious."

Family Court judge is a non-partisan seat. Unlike other non-partisan races, candidates have until Jan. 28 to register for Family Court judge.

“Demand Soars For Breakthrough Arthritis Treatment FDA Cleared, Covered By Most Insurance Even Medicare”

Osteo Relief Institute offers powerful, cutting-edge arthritis treatment... prepares for overwhelming demand as news of it's amazing results spread across the Lexington Area

Fayette County – Arthritis sufferers can't get it fast enough and doctors offering it can't keep up with the demand.

“Results are truly impressive and patients are thrilled” say the doctors and all the staff at the Osteo Relief Institute For Spine and Joint Pain, located at 1019 Majestic Drive, Suite 270 in Lexington.

They referring to their innovative breakthrough arthritis treatment program featuring Viscosupplementation treatments at the Osteo Relief Institute in Lexington, KY. The word is spreading from Louisville all the way to Bowling Green.

“The response has been a little overwhelming. Once patients found out there is an FDA cleared, Doctor administered arthritis treatment that actually works – without the side effects of toxic pain pills or risks of knee replacement surgery - and has enough scientific research that it is covered by most insurances and even medicare – our office became flooded with arthritis sufferers wanting to find if they, too, could be helped. And newer research indicates it can also be helpful in arthritis of the shoulders”.

What Is This Treatment And How Does It Work?

If you are suffering with knee (or other joint) arthritis and pain, you are not alone. Degenerative joint disease or “arthritis” affects 21 million Americans and typically involves the weight bearing joints –like your knees. According to the American College of Rheumatology, nearly 70% of people over the age of 70 have x-ray evidence of the disease (and the ranks much younger victims of this progressive disorder continue to grow significantly).

The worst thing is: Arthritis can be devastating. The pain can keep you up at night and make getting out of bed and moving around a daunting task. The pain and stiffness can suck all the happiness and joy right out of your life.

And up until now, treatment options have not been that good... or that appealing to most patients. The basic protocol has been a steady diet of toxic pain pills until your joints completely wear out and then it's time to surgically replace the knee joint.

But Now Things Have Changed

Osteoarthritis is a joint disease that mostly affects the cartilage. Cartilage is the tissue that covers the ends on bones in a joint. When healthy, cartilage allows bones to glide smoothly over one another and acts as a shock absorber.

Your “normal” knee also contains a small amount of fluid called synovial fluid. This synovial fluid is a thick, gel-like solution that cushions and lubricates the joint – much like oil lubricates the engine of your car.

In osteoarthritis, the cartilage breaks down and wears away and the synovial fluid loses it's lubricating properties and “dries up.” This is like running your car with very old or no oil at all. Now as you attempt to use your knee(s), there is not enough lubrication which causes bones to grind together resulting in pain, swelling, stiffness and the joint continues to wear out. This is a vicious cycle and can lead to bone-on-bone rubbing and excruciating pain.

Pain pills do NOT lubricate the joint or fix the problem. They simply mask the pain so you do not feel the pain as your joints continue to deteriorate. The eventual repercussions of this are obvious.

Hyalgan Is Very Different

And here is why: It contains hyaluronate, one of the two natural lubricating agents in synovial fluid. Hyalgan is precisely introduced directly into your knee joint in a series of 3-5 treatments (depending on severity) over a 4 to 6 week period. This instantly cushions the joint, reduces friction and allows greater motion with less pain or no pain at all in some cases.

Hyalgan treatment not only lubricates the joint, but it acts as a shock absorber helping reduce grinding, inflammation and pain.

Here's something very important to consider: Eventhough Hyalgan is a natural substance and is NOT considered a drug, it is NOT something you can get at your local health food store. It is scientifically researched, developed by pharmaceutical companies, FDA cleared and can ONLY administered by a qualified Doctor.

What's Results Can You Expect?

According to Hyalgan manufacturer, Sanofi Pharmaceuticals and their FDA clearance research, “A course of Hyalgan treatment– will relieve pain in a majority of patients for 6 months without the safety concerns of non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID) therapy. In many patients, the effect of Hyalgan is likely to last even longer than 6 months.”

And the best part is: Since Hyalgan is a natural substance; it can be used over and over without risk. If it works for you, you may be able to look forward to years with less pain.

Who Should Consider Hyalgan Therapy, Where Can You Get It And When Should You Start?

You should certainly consider Hyalgan therapy if you have been diagnosed with knee arthritis or told you need a knee replacement. If you have not been diagnosed with arthritis but have either knee pain, stiffness, swelling, difficulty walking or climbing stairs or loss of motion in the knee – you should have an examination to determine what the cause of your problem is. If you have any of those issues mentioned, there is a very good chance you already have - or are starting to get arthritis.

Very Important –

Do Not Wait Here's Why...

Studies indicate that if the arthritis is caught soon enough, the cushioning effect of the treatments combined with our specialized rehabilitation program may actually help the knee heal thus help avoid joint replacement surgery. In other words, the sooner you start – the better.

Does the procedure hurt? A local anesthetic is given and the procedure is virtually painless. Most patients say it feels like nothing more than a slight “pinching” sensation...that's it.

Why Treatments At Osteo Relief Institute Are So Extremely Precise

Our doctors are particularly well trained in state-of-the-art digital motion imaging which allows them to see inside the joint and get the natural cushioning Hyalgan medicine exactly where it needs to go. This makes sure treatments have the best possibility for maximum success. This is very important because studies clearly indicate that doctors doing these types of procedures - without digital imaging - can miss the joint space up to 30% of the time.

How To Check Out This Breakthrough Treatment And See It Is Right For You- Risk FREE

All the doctors at OsteoRelief Institute are extremely excited about the response and results with this wonderful treatment and would like to share it with as many arthritis sufferers as possible.

But There Is A Problem... Even though Hyalgan can help many patients, it is not a wonder cure. It does not help everyone.

For that reason, every potential patient should have a complete examination. You will only be accepted if we feel you are most likely to get the pain relief and outcome you are looking for.

That's why OsteoRelief Institute would like to invite you to come in for a knee arthritis screening at no cost to see if you actually are a candidate for comprehensive evaluation and Hyalgan treatments.

All you have to do is call 859-587-0015 right now and when the scheduling specialist answers the phone, tell her you would like your no charge “Knee Pain And Arthritis Screening.” She will know exactly what you are talking about and schedule you for our first time available.

During this time you can get all of your questions answered in a warm, friendly environment and begin to find out if Hyalgan therapy and our specialized rehab program is right for you.

But if you would like to do this, you should call right now. The demand for this procedure has been overwhelming. However, since our doctors cannot possibly screen everyone and we always makes sure to give every single patient the personal attention they deserve, we have to limit the number of screenings to just 20.

But... just imagine how it would feel to have much, if not all, of your knee pain finally gone. Imagine going to bed and being able to sleep through the entire night –and waking up refreshed and energized... ready to take on the brand new day...without the arthritis pain that's been terrorizing you and ruining your life.

And imagine finally knowing you have a treatment to manage the pain caused by your knee arthritis. Well, you may not have to just “imagine” anymore... because Hyalgan treatments and our specialized therapy regimen could be the answer you've been looking for.

If you'd like to find out - at no cost to you - if Hyalgan cushioning can help, simply give us a call at 859-587-0015 right now. Why wait one more day in pain when you may not have to? Call now before someone else gets your spot.

One More Thing It's Important...

Ever since offering this innovative treatment, our office has been flooded with calls. For that reason, if when you call, if the lines are busy or you get voice mail... just keep calling back. The possibility of living pain-free is well worth the effort it may take to get through to Osteo Relief Institute and schedule your free screening.

And don't forget: Hyalgan treatments are covered by most insurances and medicare. To schedule your no risk screening call 859-587-0015 now.

Here's How To Get A Free Screening At OsteoRelief Institute

Simply call 859-587-0015 when the phone specialist answers the phone tell her you want your Free “Conquer Knee Pain Screening”. Discover if Hyalgan can ease or eliminate your knee arthritis pain like it has already done for so many others.

Repo'd property shouldn't be among top taxpayers

If Bigfoot is real, where are the dead bodies?

Column as I see 'em ... The chart attached to this column is both interesting and sad. Interesting in that it shows just how much Wild Turkey currently pays in property taxes after investing over $100 million in our fair county during the past four years.

What's sad is the bottom half of the list because it points out just how poorly Anderson County has done in attracting more taxpaying behemoths like Wild Turkey.

At the bottom is PBI Bank, a lender that repossessed the Briar Creek subdivision across from the high school several years ago after its developer went belly up. Are you kidding me? One of Anderson County's top 10 taxpayers is the result of repo? That's a sad commentary on our community, folks.

It's equally sad that the list also includes a drug store, grocery store and department store — good businesses all but hardly what a thriving community wants to see among its top taxpayers.

Those who read my ramblings regularly know where I stand on economic development, so I won't bore you with a rehash of that rant yet again.

I will say that those dreaming of the day when Anderson County has its own $4 million-plus public swimming facility and high school athletic fields that aren't a joke had better wake up.

Barring a hefty property tax increase on their own back yards, they might as well resign themselves to swimming in the river and watching their kids play on glorified sandlots.

An awful lot of lip service will be paid in the coming year to economic development as incumbents and hopefuls beg for votes in the 2014 general election that will seat the next fiscal court, city council, mayor and judge-executive.

All will say they fully support bringing jobs and industry to Anderson County, so it's your job, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, to do more than nod your head and say, "That sounds good."

and demand to know specifically how they will work toward that end. If they can't answer that question firmly and decisively, we suggest considering voting for someone who can, regardless of their last name or how long they've lived here.

That is unless you're proud to live in a community where repossessed property is among your county's most valuable assets.

Speaking of assets ... Despite recent media reports to the contrary, Bigfoot does not live in Anderson County (or anywhere else).

Others vehemently disagree, but have yet to provide evidence solid enough for me to swallow.

Bigfoot delirium surfaced again last week when some people produced what they claimed was grainy high-def footage of a Bigfoot roaming around in Texas. That sparked the Lexington TV stations to deploy camera teams and reporters back into Anderson County, which has been a hotbed of Bigfoot conversation largely thanks to some folks who have spent years trying to get indisputable evidence that the creature lives near what is known locally as Panther Rock.

I bought into that hype, too, about five years ago when they produced a reality TV show, but opted out of doing much reporting on it after speaking to the folks who actually own that property and they asked me to kindly stay the H E double toothpicks off of it.

Didn't blame them a bit. There's a cave on that property and the last thing they need is to have some chubby reporter (that would be me) or randy teenagers traipsing all over their land.

I appreciate the zeal with which some folks pursue their Bigfoot dreams, but as someone who spends more than his fair share time in the woods pursuing animals that are actually there, I just don't buy it.

If Bigfoot were alive, wouldn't it or its offspring eventually die? Of course it would, leaving behind a corpse that some hunter or another would almost certainly have found by now.

Between now and the end of deer season, if I stumble across any Bigfoot carcasses or bones, you'll be the first to know.

How does school district monitor Internet use of students, teachers?

You sign your name in blood on the Internet. Not literally, because that'd be gross and virtually impossible.

But no other metaphor, in my opinion, gives the right weight of gravitas when it comes to discussing the permanent nature of representing yourself on the Internet.

It's an unconscious blood oath that you sign with the entire online world, that everyone you write and post will exist for infinity.

To me, that's more frightening thought than being terrorized out of my ever living mind at the haunted house fundraiser at Eagle Lake. And I'm really, really scared of haunted houses.

Some perspective: I cried and hid my face in my grandfather's lap the entire time I went on the haunted house ride at Disney World. I was scared. I was probably 7 years old.

I actually believe most teenagers who use social media have nothing to be frightened of; they are often more savvy than adults when it comes to conducting themselves on the Internet, for better and for worse. But today's column isn't a pedantic Miss Manners sermon on social media etiquette.

It's a question about storage. Specifically, how the school district keeps track of what websites students visit during the school day, even while using their personal devices outside of class.

Curious about this, I asked Chief Technology Officer Bret Foster about how the school system monitors the Internet activities of its more than 3,000 students.

State regulations, Foster said, require districts to have a filtering system (to block the obvious non-educational spam sites) and a proxy server that tracks and monitors student use.

In other words, every time a student or even a staff member signs in to the school system's Wi-Fi and hops onto the Internet, they will leave a digital trail of what website they used and at what time.

Meaghan Downs
News Editor

That includes the student's digital username "signature," but only if the student has logged into the school's network, Foster said.

The student data sit on a local server and after a certain amount of time (Foster said he's not sure how long), this trail of online usage is purged from the system, not unlike clearing your browser history.

Only Foster and network administrator Rusty Sexton have access to this data, Foster said. Sexton can generate a report for Foster, but only Foster can look at the information, Foster said.

No monthly reports are drawn up of student information, he said. The school system does not have the ability to track social media passwords.

To my knowledge, no administrators or teachers require students to disclose their social media usernames and passwords.

The only time he looks at the information is if a building administrator has a concern about usage.

In the last year, Foster said, he estimates he's looked at student Internet use data a total of twice. And both times, the student did not act inappropriately.

Foster said the Children's Internet Protection Act requires every student in the Anderson County school system to take some sort of "digital citizenship" program course, session or tutorial, which has to be completed by the end of October, before they're able to sign into the network.

"They are getting some skill sets taught to them, how to make good decisions about any form of technology," Foster said.

Each school is responsible for coming up with their own "digital citizenship" program and by all appearances, it looks like most Anderson County students are on board.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

So-called 'atheist' letter writer should practice what he preaches

To the editor:

I read Mr. Jerry Millburn's guest column (Hypocrites on school board know they're wrong) in last week's paper and would like to share some observations.

Mr. Milburn made a reference to prayer being in the closet. Sure, the Bible makes that statement in Matthew 6:6. The only problem is that refers to personal prayer and not group. If his observation were correct our worship services would be without prayer, as well as other public prayers. He asked, "Who am I to judge?" and then makes many judgments concerning many individuals that he knows very little or nothing at all about.

An atheist? The way he quotes the Bible it appears he must have someone in his past that loved him and taught him of God's word. I get the impression he may be more an agnostic than atheist. But who am I to judge?

I agree, Mr. Milburn, that outsiders should not try to direct the affairs of Anderson County. I feel we have ample folks to make our decisions. I would not want anyone to prevent his right to express his opinion (freedom of speech). I am very much concerned about the thoughts of our local citizens. I like the fact that in our society the majority rules (Democratic).

I thought it very strange that he would make any reference of the Muslim religion being the majority. He obviously knows very little of the Muslim faith. Were he to make those same kinds of references to Muslim prayers in Iran or any other Muslim nation he would be absent a head. Isn't it nice to live in a society that we can express our personal opinions without fear? They would not give you the opportunity of court or law.

I defend Mr. Milburn's right to sit in a meeting where prayer to God is a part. You should not be asked to leave. Christians should not feel a need to leave in order to say our prayers.

Someone said, "You will never remove prayer from the schools as long as there are tests." I disagree with some of the actions of the school board but I have to accept their decisions because that apparently is the opinion of their constituents.

Prayer, Mr. Milburn, is not intended to convert you or change your mind on your personal beliefs. It is simply to follow our beliefs that God can guide and direct our lives.

Therefore we ask for his blessings on the decisions made during the meeting. As you say, you don't believe in a god, then what would be wrong with asking his blessings?

Also, another area that is important to this discussion is that there is no comment found in any official government document that makes reference to separation of church and state.

The only statement you will find is that the state shall not dictate religion. In other words the state is to stay out of the religious area of our lives.

It doesn't prevent religion from being found in the affairs of the state.

My final thought of the whole issue is that you want your "faith" (faith that there is no god) to rule over our faith that there is a God. Jesus Christ died on that cross for everyone whether they believe in him or not. Jesus loves you, Mr. Milburn, and so do the Christians of Anderson County.

I am sorry you don't want Christians to practice what they believe while you maintain your right to practice what you believe.

Liberals trying to 'convert' us, our children

To the editor:

Regarding the ACLU — and those collaborators who work with it to strip Kentucky of its Christian identity — it's worth remembering that "love your enemies" doesn't mean "pretend you haven't any."

When liberals let on like they'll be satisfied if only we agree to their latest "small" and "fair" demand, they are lying. Always.

The left is the mouse to whom one should never ever give a cookie, for every leftist triumph is followed by another demand for something else, and then for something else, and then something else again.

Under Clinton, "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" was the leftist goal, but it would now be condemned as a radical right-wing policy; while today liberals demonize defenders of real marriage, back in the 90s they mocked as paranoid crazies conservatives who warned that gay "marriage" was the next step in the homosexualist agenda.

Here in Frankfort, the gay lobby and its sock puppets on the city council have empowered, at taxpayers' expense, a team of Tolerance Commissioners to look over the shoulders of landlords and businessmen; in Louisville public schools use public money to stuff politically correct propaganda into the heads of students.

Over time the liberal pretense to neutrality is revealed as just that — a pretense. Liberalism is a religion and an aggressive one, with its own dogmas, ministers and rituals. And liberals are trying to convert us, or at least our children.

If we agree to exclude God from schools, then we will indeed have the godless schools they demand; we will have replaced God with their utopian idol, the liberated individual.

Those offended by the Gospel will find this hard to grasp, but Western civilization's respect for personal dignity is bound to an implicitly Christian understanding of man. At best such respect may linger for a little while in social, legal and political institutions after they have been purged of Christian consciousness.

But only for a little while. The message needs to be repeated, again and again: Without God there are no rights worth having.

Time is ripe to put pumpkins, apples to good use

Pumpkins and apples are at the Anderson County Farmer's Market now. You can also purchase them directly from several local farms.

A good carving pumpkin doesn't usually make a good eating pumpkin. The carving pumpkins are tough and a little bland. Pie or sweet pumpkins are best for cooking and baking, as they have a more tender rind and are less fibrous.

Pumpkin fits in your eating plan because it is fat free, cholesterol free, sodium free, and a good source of vitamin C and an excellent source of vitamin A. One serving of pumpkin (3/4 cup) contains only 25 calories and 1 gram each of sugar and protein. One pound of raw, unpeeled pumpkin will yield one cup of ready to use pumpkin puree.

Joan Martin
Columnist

When selecting a pumpkin, look for one with 1 to 2 inches of stem. If the stem is cut too short, the pumpkin will decay quickly.

Avoid pumpkins with blemishes and soft spots. Pumpkins should be heavy, but shape is unimportant if you are cooking them.

Pumpkins can be stored in a cool, dark place for up to two months. A storage shed, basement or garage floor may be a good storage area. Cooked pumpkin can be canned or frozen for future use.

Canned pumpkin must be chunked, not pureed for canning. Don't try to can pureed pumpkin at home because it may be a source of botulism. Pureed pumpkin will not reach an internal temperature of 240 degrees in a home pressure canner. Call the Extension Office for directions on canning pumpkin. You may not want to do it because pints are processed for 55 minutes and quarts for 90 minutes.

It's much easier to freeze pumpkin instead of canning it. Mix one part sugar to 6 parts of pumpkin puree, put in freezer containers, leave 1/2 inch of headspace, and then freeze.

To prepare pumpkin, rinse to remove dirt and pat dry. Cut around the stem about two inches from the stem.

Remove top and use a large metal spoon to scoop out the fiber and seeds. Cut the pumpkin in half and scrape the flesh to remove any remaining fiber. You can bake, boil or microwave pumpkin.

Baking is the easiest in my opinion because you don't have to cut the raw pumpkin.

To bake pumpkin, place the two halves, cut side down, in an ovenproof dish or lined cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 to 2 hours or until tender. Cook, then cool and scrape out the flesh and discard the rind.

Pumpkin Apple Muffin
Makes 18 muffins

- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/4 cup whole wheat flour
- 1 1/4 teaspoons baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/14 cups honey (see substitute below)
- 2 large eggs
- 1 1/2 cups fresh pureed pumpkin or canned pumpkin
- 1/2 cup canola oil
- 2 cups Granny Smith apples, finely chopped

Preheat oven to 325 degrees.

In a large bowl, combine flours, baking soda, salt and spices.

In a small bowl, combine honey, eggs, pumpkin and oil. Stir into dry ingredients just until moistened. Fold in apples.

Fill greased or paper lined muffin cups, 2/3 full.

Bake for 25 to 30 minutes or until muffins test done with a toothpick.

Cool for 10 minutes before removing from the pan.

Note: Can substitute two cups granulated sugar (white sugar) for honey, decrease baking soda by 1/4 teaspoon for a total of 1 teaspoon baking soda and increase oven temperature to 350 degrees.

Moved your iris, lilies and other perennials yet? Better get busy

One of my most favorite things about the farm is the view that I have at sunset. The air has cooled to a pleasant degree and watching the sun send up its last horrah fills the sky with ribbons of color to rival any masterpiece.

The dogs love to run and romp in the yard, taking turns to come say hello and get a good scratching. It clears my mind of the day's events and helps me appreciate all that I have.

The farm sits high on the ridge, giving me the affect of being a highway cone in the middle of the country. All the sounds travel up to me. With such pleasant weather cooling the evening air, my windows get opened nightly. Lucky, my neighbors dog, likes to announce all the critters in the area as the moon rises.

The night air usually helps me sleep, but last week, there was a night when I couldn't get the day's events out of my head. I watched the clock roll from midnight to 1 a.m. Then, just as I was slumbering off, the Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Coyotes starts up, sending the dogs into full alert barking. That'll wake you up.

The coyotes were in rare singing form and it must have been a ridge reunion because there were plenty of voices. I could just imagine all the other nocturnal critters freezing in their tracks. The coyotes would alternate between howling, their "We're here" vocalization, and their yelping, their "Whahoo, let's party" noise. Needless to say, it took a while for me to nod off.

During daylight hours, I've been working on my "I was gonna" list. I walk around the farm and find all those things to do that I was going to do, but put it off for some reason or another. You may have a list of your own.

If you haven't moved those iris, lilies and other perennials, then get digging. It should have been done one to two months ago, so mulch heavy. Winter squash like butternut should be solid tan by now and the spaghetti squash should be a bright yellow.

Acorn squash should be a little orange over a dark green background. Leave a couple of inches of stem on them so they'll store longer.

Mums are cheap this time of year and you can still plant. Dig the soil well, making it light and loose, before you plant. Space them about 2 1/2 feet from each other. Then, be sure to press the soil down firmly to remove any air pockets and water well.

After our first hard frost browns the flowers, cut them almost to the ground and mulch. They'll start growing again next spring.

I thought we'd take a peak at the Old Farmer's Almanac November and winter weather forecast for the Ohio Valley. The first week mentions flurries and snow, as does the 12th-14th and the 28th-30th. Looks like Thanksgiving may be a white one.

The Almanac's winter weather prediction is calling for a colder and drier than normal season, with below normal snowfall. They were off last year, though there's a lot of land in the Ohio Valley region.

I'm going to keep my fingers crossed that they'll be right this year, but the August fogs worry me. We'll just have to wait and see.

Now, get out there and get all those green tomatoes in the house. The frosts will be here before we know it. Then, you can go into full squirrel mode and start gathering nuts. Fall is upon us. Happy Growing.

Fiscal court spends $63,000 to purchase scales

Decision will end free dumping of non-recyclables at highway garage

By Ben Carlson
News staff

The Anderson County Fiscal Court voted last Tuesday to spend $63,562 to purchase a set of scales for its recycling center and sell off bleachers and other items from its now defunct pulling track. The scales, once installed, will allow the county to charge 5 cents per pound for items discarded at the recycling center, including contractor materials, household waste and yard debris. Recyclables will still be accepted at no charge. The purchase continued ongoing disagreement among some magistrates who objected to the fiscal court spending what now amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars to upgrade its recycling program.

On Tuesday, magistrates Kenny Barnett and Buddy Sims each voted against purchasing the scales. Voting for the purchase were magistrates Juretta Wells, David Montgomery, David Ruggles and Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway. Magistrate Forrest Dale Stevens was absent.

Barnett previously voiced his concerns over charging residents to discard items, saying it has always been a free service.

"I know people in your district don't want to pay, Kenny," said Conway. "But our solid waste coordinator has talked to people and they don't mind to pay."

"I still think it's going to be a problem," Barnett said.

Sims questioned if out-of-county contractors will be allowed to dump at the location.

"If they want to come here, they can come here," said Conway.

Despite a current rule that prohibits contractors from dumping at the location, Ruggles said they've been doing it all along.

He said the current rules require only that a person have an Anderson County ID to dump.

"There are contractors from Anderson County cleaning out houses in Lexington and bringing it here," he said. "We're being saps for letting them do that."

"That should have been stopped a long time ago," Barnett countered.

Conway said he has clamped down on out-of-county dumpers during his time in office, reducing the cost to taxpayers from around $47,000 a year to $32,000.

"I stopped people from Woodford County bring their solid waste here," said Conway. "They are being checked."

Brush, however, is still coming in.

"They bring it here from Woodford County all the time," he said. "It's a constant flow."

Charging for brush means county residents will no longer have a free location to get rid of yard debris. Currently, a location for brush is located behind the county highway garage, where it's burned, but Conway has said in the past that his fear is that EPA officials will eventually force the county to stop that practice.

Magistrates rejected a lower bid of just under $52,000 for the scales. Ruggles, who chairs the county's solid waste committee, said he talked with numerous experts who said the company selected was "the only one to consider."

Bleachers, light poles to be sold

The fiscal court will solicit bids on bleachers, light and utility poles no longer needed for the pulling track in the county park.

The items were purchased about a year ago from Scott County for around $4,100, but have been determined to be useless because they don't meet OSHA standards.

The bleachers aren't safe because they don't contain the proper protections to keep children from slipping through the area between the benches and foot rests, which is required for bleachers more than five seats high.

Magistrates previously considered cutting them down and using them for the football field that has yet to be used, but decided against it.

"They're in pretty rough shape," said Montgomery, who chairs the county's parks and recreation committee.

Ruggles said the bleachers will present the same OSHA issues for whomever buys them.

"That's their problem," said Montgomery.

Mount Pleasant Baptist Church gives thanks for quick recovery from flood damage

By Meaghan Downs

Church members trickle into the church and shake raindrops off umbrellas as Pastor Bobby Chesser conducts a short tour through Mount Pleasant Baptist on Sunday morning.

He points to the new dry-wall. New tile. New carpet.

The small country church's sanctuary has also been completely rewired since a flash flood hit the church eight weeks ago, Chesser said.

The faint scent of new paint in the hallway gives away that volunteers worked the night before Sunday's Homecoming service to finish small touch-ups.

In the middle of repairing the water-damaged sanctuary, the church had to reschedule its annual revival a few weeks ago because renovations wouldn't be quite ready in time.

That wouldn't be the case for the church's 169th Homecoming service.

On Sunday congregation members filled the pews and the sanctuary with prayers of thanks for being able to celebrate Homecoming in a rebuilt sanctuary with the help of donations and volunteers.

"The people, I tell you," Chesser said standing in his office before the worship service, his worn black Bible waiting on his desk. "The love the people in this county has showed has been unbelievable. It wouldn't have been possible without the community."

Chesser said one generous donor purchased the carpet in his study and the back hallway and the tile in both the Sunday school rooms and fellowship hall.

"Didn't cost us a penny," Chesser, who added that the church spent much of its own money fixing the building following the August flood, said.

Chesser, a resident of Washington County, said donors from both Washington and Anderson counties volunteered time and money to help the church rebuild.

The Homecoming service's guest speaker and former Mount Pleasant pastor Harold Garrison said that about nine years ago, the church experienced a flood that left creek water in the church about a foot deep.

When Puncheon Creek rose nearly 15 feet in a flash flood on Aug. 7 that destroyed a residence and bridge, water poured into Mount Pleasant Baptist Church and swept away its steps and a 1,000-gallon propane tank.

The entrance to the front of the church, which sits near the bank of Puncheon Creek on Willisburg Road, was thick with mud, Chesser said.

The flood washed away tens of thousands of dollars of renovations finished in recent years.

Despite the devastation, worship was held that Sunday.

"Mud, dirt, everything," Deacon Ernie Drury said. "But we had service."

Drury, who lives about a quarter of a mile from the church, said he volunteered to fix up the church nearly every day since the August flood. Last Thursday he didn't leave for home until about 10:30 p.m., he said.

The heavy rain and news of flooding in other parts of central Kentucky this past Sunday didn't concern Drury when it came to joining in the Homecoming service.

"We're just leaving it in God's hands because it is ... it's all in God's hands. We want to give him praise," Drury said.

The church never missed a Sunday service since the flood, he said.

Drury, who leads the choir, said the congregation even worshipped in the fellowship hall one Sunday as the sanctuary underwent repairs.

The fellowship hall now buzzed with the voices of those uncovering potluck dishes of fried chicken, cookies and pies as hymn-singing continued in the sanctuary to give those in the kitchen time to set up the meal.

"Felt great," James Hammons, a member of one the committees responsible for helping the church rebuild, said while waiting in line for the potluck meal. "Seeing the church, how clean it was and the work [that has] been done."

"The Lord has blessed us to get back in this short period of time," Chesser said.

"Again, we can't thank the people of this county enough."

After a flash flood in August left ruined wiring, drywall and carpet, Mount Pleasant Baptist church members and volunteers worked tirelessly over the last eight weeks to get the 200-year-old church back in shape.

dad, Davis. "My grandfather did it I know for at least 50 years," Davey said. "All my life I remember doing it." Davey took over the family tradition in 2003, after his father, William Davis Wardford Sr., passed away. He said to serve the 300 to 400 people expected at Monday's annual meeting, he'll have three 25- to 30-gallon cast iron kettles stuffed with meat, vegetables and other ingredients cooking over a traditional open fire. Asked to describe why his family's famous burgoo has been such a mainstay at the annual meeting, Davey said tradition plays a major role. "I don't know if there's anything special about it or not," he said. "It's the way we cook it. It's cooked over an open fire like our ancestors did it — like Daniel Boone did it. The stuff tastes a lot better in cast iron than aluminum."

The annual Farm Bureau membership meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 14 at Eagle Lake Convention Center in Lawrenceburg. Burgoo will be served starting at 5:30 p.m. The event is free to Farm Bureau members. Non-members pay a small fee at the door.

Warford said cooking nearly 100 gallons of burgoo is no small task. "We'll get there around 7:30 [a.m.] to get the fire going, and have burgoo on by 9," he said. Once the kettles are filled, the stirring begins to keep the concoction from burning on the bottom. Warford the Anderson County FFA again this year will help him with that as part of its fundraising efforts to send members to the organization's national convention. "They have to stir it all day long until I take the pot off the fire," Warford said. Warford said he genuinely enjoys the effort it takes to cook so much burgoo, a task he also performs annually for Claylick Methodist Church, where he cooked a similar batch this past Monday. "The community gives you stuff and I like to give something back," he said. "You get to see people you haven't seen in a long time and enjoy their fellowship."

VFW and Auxiliary offer prize money in student essay contest

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4075 and the Ladies Auxiliary are sponsoring two contests for youth in the community, according to a press release. The "Voice of Democracy Scholarship Competition" is open to students in grades 9-12. It is a three- to five-minute audio-essay on the subject "Why I'm Optimistic about our Nation's Future." First and second place winners will receive $500 and $250, respectively, and be eligible for district, state and national scholarships. The second contest is the "Patriots Pen Youth Essay Writing Contest" for students in grades 6-8. The theme is "What Patriotism Means to Me." The student must write a 300-400 word essay on this patriotic theme. First and second place winners will receive $100 and $50, respectively, and be eligible for district, state and national scholarships. The deadline to enter both contests is Nov. 1, 2013. Contest organizers ask teachers to please submit a typed list of students' names who enter the contests. For more information about either contest or to participate, contact Larry Montgomery at 502-330-7520 or contact the counselor at your school.

Sheriff elected to serve on Kentucky Sheriffs' Association

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Association elected Anderson County Sheriff Troy Young to serve as the 2014 1st vice president of the association, according to a news release. "Sheriff Young is most deserving and has always represented Kentucky sheriffs in a positive manner," Jerry Wagner, executive director of the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association, said in the release. "I feel sure he will continue to stand for Kentucky sheriffs, along with the citizens of Anderson County and the commonwealth, during his tenure." The Kentucky Sheriffs' Association recently held its 84th annual conference in Bowling Green in the beginning of September, with more than 150 sheriffs and deputies participating in training.

agency's LaGrange office, appeared on Cram's behalf and agreed to the trial date. Cram's absence from the hearing was not discussed, but Lowe said afterward that he remains in the Shelby County Detention Center. McNeely was found dead in her home on Clay Burgin Road after apparently being struck several times in the head with a blunt object, according to police reports at that time. McNeely, a daughter of fallen Kentucky State Police Trooper James McNeely who died in the line of duty in 1971, died of a brain injury from blunt impact, investigators said at the time, and may have lived from minutes to hours following her assault. Cram, who rented a room from McNeely, was immediately considered a suspect but could not be found, triggering a nationwide search. He was captured several weeks later in Arizona after leaving a trial of purchases made with McNeely's debit card that wound through Tennessee, Georgia and into Florida. During the July hearing, Cram told Hickman that he has wanted a speedy trial since he was first captured and that his health has suffered during the time of his incarceration. "I've spent two years in that jail, my health is suffering and my teeth are falling out," Cram said. "They stopped treating me since November of last year, unless I get sent to the emergency room." Hickman called the department's inability to provide Cram with legal counsel an "utter failure." "His guaranteed right to counsel under the United States Constitution, and he also should be afforded competent council whether any of the assigned parties were unable to perform their duties, has been completely gutted by the DPA [Department of Public Advocacy]," Hickman said.

"It's not the court's fault. It's not the Commonwealth's fault. It is not Mr. Cram's fault. This falls under the DPA." Comment at theandersonnews.com.

Help bring soldiers home for holidays

Saturday event features signed Calipari portait, jersey

By Ben Carlson
News staff

When Christmas neared last year, Rodney Goodlett wasn't a happy man. While speaking with his son Seth, a soldier stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., Goodlett learned that many of Seth's fellow soldiers simply couldn't afford a trip home for the holidays. "Those soldiers fought for our country in Iraq and Afghanistan and shouldn't have to spend Christmas alone on a base just because they don't have the money to get home," Goodlett said. Goodlett, a local insurance agent, decided being angry wouldn't solve the problem so he did something about it and helped raise money to get those soldiers home for Christmas. He's doing it again this year, now through a Kentucky-based organization called Defining Forces, which will host a benefit poker run and auction Saturday at the American Legion post on Broadway. Registration is from 10:30 a.m. to noon, and the ride begins at 12:30 p.m. "This is to raise money to help soldiers get home for the holidays by providing plane tickets, gas money or even money to help them buy Christmas gifts for their kids," Goodlett said. Riders will go to The Kickstand, Derby Cycle, Cooter Browns and Wash's Cycles before returning to the Legion for a dinner and dance featuring music by After Hours. Cost is $25 for riders and $15 for passengers, which includes dinner, door prizes and a dance ticket. Non-riders are welcome at $10 each until all seats are sold. The auction, which begins at 5:30 p.m., will include a University of Kentucky basketball jersey signed by coach John Calipari, along with a framed signed photograph of Calipari.

'Dances with Wolves' actor stars in Avenstoke Road film shoot

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

A Native American man is dying in a cabin on Avenstoke Road. Director and producer Ray Arthur Wang describes his three-and-a-half-minute drama art piece as "an existential meditation on death and rebirth" with the primary filming taking place this week in a run-down cabin on Avenstoke Road in Lawrenceburg. The "golden hour" of a setting autumn sun served as the inspiration for Wang's short, he said, specifically the fall colors of Kentucky. "I've been hanging out in Berea, Ky., for about a year or so, working on a different project, and I really enjoy the autumn colors on the East Coast, including Kentucky, so I decided that I wanted to take advantage of the autumn colors," Wang, originally from California, said in an interview

Director needs to cast baby for part in film
Director and producer Ray Arthur Wang said he is looking to cast the part of a baby for his short film 'Circle of Life.' A boy or a girl is fine, but anyone from a 15-day-old to 1-year-old is preferred. "In a perfect world, they'd be twin babies (identical not required) since it's always easier working with babies when there are backup options," Wang said via e-mail. The baby's scene would take place the afternoon of Sunday, Oct. 13, so only about two hours of time commitment are needed. Contact Wang if interested at raw@rawpp.com. E-mail is preferred, but those interested can also call 650-799-4894.

at The Anderson News office Friday. Wang knew he wanted to shoot his movie in Kentucky, so he got in touch with Dian Knight of the Kentucky Film Office, who in turn, contacted city attorney Robert Myles. Myles found the unoccupied wooden cabin for Wang, who was searching for a structure within a two-hour radius of Berea that looked "totally abandoned, dilapidated." The drama centers on the last moments of a dying hermit to be played by Graham Greene, Academy Award nominee best known for his role in the movie "Dances with Wolves." The only spoken lines of dialogue will be in the form of narration by actor Michael Horse of the TV series "Twin Peaks." The only other acting role is a baby who will represent the theme of reincarnation and rebirth in the film, Ray said. Ray, who has produced and directed numerous films, said he enjoys creating high-quality films such as the minutes-long "Circle of Life" on a low budget. "I just like minimalism, keeping things short and sweet," Ray Director Ray Arthur Wang stands on the front porch of a wooden cabin on Avenstoke Road, the primary filming location for Wang's upcoming project 'Circle of Life.' said. "Features, there's just kind of like built-in restrictions ... it's based on economics versus shorts, it's all about the art." Filming will take place at the cabin at the end of this week and into the weekend, Wang said, and said local restaurants Heavens to Betsy! and Talk of the Town have been helpful in opening before hours to feed Wang's cast and crew. Wesley Peyton, the owner of the cabin Wang is using for his film, said he built the now-abandoned residence himself about 15 years ago on a portion of his 20 acres on Avenstoke Road. He lived in the cabin for about a year, and his son lived in the house for about six. Now, he keeps his mules and horses on the property. No one has lived in the cabin for about 10 years, Peyton said. For two days this week, however, Peyton's cabin will be the makeshift home for Wang's skeleton crew of fewer than 10 people, including California cinematographer Norris Pope who will shoot the film with a vintage 35 mm camera. Wang said once "Circle of Life" is completed, he hopes to submit the short as an entry in future film festivals.

Middle school student sends note 'threatening' Saffell Street elementary

From staff reports

A male middle school student allegedly handed a note "threatening in nature" to a Saffell Street student riding the bus last Wednesday afternoon, resulting in an investigation by school administrators and the city police. Police Chief Chris Atkins said last Thursday afternoon that a Saffell Street parent contacted police after an elementary student received a note from a middle school juvenile while riding the bus after school Oct. 2. Superintendent Sheila Mitchell, in a press release e-mailed Thursday, described the information as "threatening in nature to Saffell Street Elementary." School officials investigated immediately and contacted police, Mitchell wrote. Atkins said the note in question could be construed as threatening toward Saffell Street Elementary in general, but it appears that was not the note-writer's intention. Atkins said city police do not currently have any concerns of potential violence against students and staff at Saffell Street. "There was absolutely at no time ever anyone in danger," Atkins said. "It was a kid being foolish to try to be funny." Police did not arrest the middle school student, and he has not been charged as of last Thursday afternoon. Atkins said once the school district has completed its report of the incident, police would be speaking with the Anderson County Attorney's office to determine if the student will be charged or if the school district would be administering possible disciplinary action.

Ward fourth graders classify animals without speaking

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

The challenge: classify members of the animal kingdom only by the shake of the head or pointing a finger.

Fourth graders selected one person to roam from table to table in search of a spider, snake, kangaroo, fish or another animal cutout that belongs in their assigned class system.

Jane Thompson, a 23-year veteran teacher in the Anderson County school system, said requiring students to work without talking keeps groups working together instead of one student overtaking the task.

"This way, everyone has to participate," she said.

Last Wednesday's objective — written on Thompson's whiteboard — was "I can classify animals by their structures and use evidence to support my claim."

Thompson said the activity, in which students matched photos of four animals to a set of characteristics and class name such as "amphibians," "invertebrates" or "mammals," encouraged students to become experts of their assigned class category.

Students researched their class system using a personal electronic device or Thompson's classroom computer in order to teach their peers what they learned the next day.

When students hunt for the answers themselves and are able to put answers in their own words, Thompson said, they're more likely to remember the material.

They'll also use knowledge from a recent field trip to the Salato Wildlife Center, when students learned that scientists actually separate reptiles into three distinct groups — reptiles, turtles, and crocodiles and alligators.

There's nothing official in the students' textbooks yet on the change in the reptile class, Thompson said, but since the students are collecting evidence like scientists, they'll need to work like modern scientists to decide what is included or not included in the class system.

Thompson, who only teaches science at Ward Elementary, said the subject is her passion.

"It helps the kids be better thinkers, be better decision makers," she said.

"Everything, in my mind, starts with science," Thompson said.

Alexus Greene, left, and Chloe Goodlett read classification characteristics of their animal group during Jane Thompson's science class. Each group received an animal group and students had find the correct corresponding animals and the group's classification characteristics without speaking.

Tucker Scott, Jude Wilson, Mayson Toll and Jazmin Grace wait to see if their animals and set of characteristics matches their class system of 'reptiles.'

Fourth graders Cassidy Young and Brooklyn Hill look to see if their animals match the characteristics 'born alive,' 'nurses young' and 'has hair or fur.'

Fourth grade science teacher Jane Thompson works with student Jordan Sparks, left, to check if this group matched the right animals to the right class and characteristics.

4-H REPORT

Super Stars

On Sept. 27 Mrs. Campbell came to Mrs. Blackburn's class to talk about the 4-H club.

The class voted Julia McNulty for president, for vice president Blake Sutherland, for secretary Richmond Boggs and news reporter Abby Joseph. Next we voted what the club name would be. The four main people picked three names. They picked the Super Stars out of the three.

On Sept. 30 Mrs. Sample came to Mrs. Blackburn's class. She first collected 4-H forms. She explained how to do the thing we were doing. We were doing a scientific method. The class had to build two pyramids out of spaghetti and marshmallows and connect them from the top with spaghetti. Then we take a envelope and a paperclip and attach it to the spaghetti and see how many pennies it could hold. You do the same thing with linguini, but don't rebuild the pyramid.

Gift shop opens next to Main St. bourbon mansion

'The Attic' offers weekend tours of T. B. Ripy House

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

The proprietor of "The Attic," located on the T. B. Ripy house grounds, said he hopes the new gift shop will bring awareness of Lawrenceburg's pre-prohibition history as well as some funding needed to restore the historic residence.

Tom Ripy, a Pittsburgh-based businessman and descendant of distillery owner T. B. Ripy, said he brought up the idea of opening a visitors center and gift shop in the garage next to the mansion during a general meeting with the owners of the mansion.

Ripy said he's been basically living in Lawrenceburg for the past four months, working to get The Attic, located on 320 South Main behind the Ripy house in an unattached garage, ready for customers.

Gift shop open for business

Hours

Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Sunday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The gift shop can be found at the back of the property located at 320 South Main St., in an outbuilding formerly used as a garage. A portion of the sales of the gift shop goes to the rebuilding of the T. B. Ripy house.

Tours

Tom Ripy, the proprietor of 'The Attic,' said the gift shop will offer tours of the T. B. Ripy house on the weekends per visitor request. Tours are limited on weekdays due to construction on the Ripy house.

Contact 502-517-5488 for any questions.

The gift shop, which has been open to visitors for about two weeks, offers antiques, Kentucky-based products, local honey, bourbon barrel furniture and distillery artifacts among other Kentucky items.

Ripy, who has a degree in fine arts, also drew a sketch of the Ripy house and a redesign of the Bond & Lillard distillery logo to place on T-shirts and mugs for sale at the shop.

The gift shop is also the starting location for T. B. Ripy house tours, Ripy said, offered to visitors on the weekends.

"At this point, [the T. B. Ripy house] sort of belongs to the community, so it's treated that way," Ripy said.

Jacob Marraccini, an employee of The Attic gift shop, said most of the traffic they've gotten is from local residents wanting to check out the new store and to see the house.

Ripy said he would like to offer more tours of the house during the week, but will be limited as the house is currently undergoing repairs.

"It brings the house alive, which I think is important," Ripy said of The Attic.

The Attic is a separate business than the corporation that owns the house itself and will operate under a rental agreement with the Items for sale in the gift shop range from antique small bourbon bottles for a few bucks to bourbon barrel furniture and antiques.

mansion's owners, city council member George Geoghegan, who is a joint owner of the mansion along with Ripy's father and mother, said.

A percentage of the profits from The Attic gift shop will be going toward restoring the T. B. Ripy house, he said.

Geoghegan said the front porch and front columns of the house have been replaced and the foyer and front parlor have been painted. The mansion now has a working bathroom on the lower level, he said, and work continues on the dining room.

The house is nowhere near finished, Geoghegan said, but he hopes to get to a point where events could be held on the downstairs floor of the house. Construction will go as far as to "mothball" the house, that is, restore the building to the point where the house won't be dangerously deteriorating as the owners save more money for repairs.

"If it's successful for [son and The Attic proprietor Tom Ripy], and I hope it is, it will certainly help the house out as we try to renovate it," the elder Tom Ripy said.

Unborn children are treasures, not cancer

In a baffling display of asinine “logic,” unborn children were lumped together with cancer cells as being something that everyone should have equal access to have removed under the new Affordable Health Care Act.

Brian Owens
Faith columnist

According to an article by Jacqueline Klimas for the “Washington Times,” the Office of Personnel Management ruled on Sept. 30 to allow members of Congress and their staffs to buy insurance coverage that provides abortion and contraceptive coverage. The problem is, as this article points out, while their insurance premiums are covered by their employer, their employer happens to be Joe Taxpayer.

This decision by the OPM violates federal law. Since 1976 the Hyde Amendment, a rider that has, in various forms, been attached to the annual Labor/Health and Human Services (HHS)/Education appropriations bill, prohibits Medicaid from funding abortion services, except in extremely rare circumstances (i.e., rape, incest and/or the health of the mother).

In an effort to dodge the accusations that the decision breaks federal law, the OPM says that the premiums will be parsed out and that the cost of abortion services will be covered by the employee's own contributions.

The Obama administration has aggressively sought to have across the board, unrestrained access to abortion, sterilization, contraceptives and abortifacants (i.e., the Morning After pill) in federally funded health insurance plans. Their argument is that these are “essential health services” that all health care plans should be required cover for all people, frequently citing “women’s health and well-being” as being the overarching principle.

In the hours leading up the to the governing shutdown, House Republicans included a “religious freedom” amendment in a bill that would have paused the enforcement of the contraceptive mandate for a year, while continuing to fund federal entities.

The language of this amendment garnered the attention of Barbara Boxer, a California Democrat who does not mince words about her liberal leanings. Calling this a “war on women,” Boxer is quoted in the article as saying, in reference to the amendment, that “anyone who has ever postponed a life-saving cancer screening because they couldn’t afford it knows how cruel and dangerous this Republican shutdown plan is.” Rather than addressing the primary reason the amendment was introduced (protection of the unborn and religious liberty), she throws up the red herring of cancer screening, thus equating unwanted unborn children to cancer cells, something that needs to be prevented and removed.

Why doesn’t she simply say what she and others on her side of the aisle say what she really desire: unrestricted access to abortions for any and every reason, at any point in the pregnancy the mother deems necessary – all at taxpayer expense.

This debacle is yet another example of the morbid depths to which the abortion debate has slid. The baby is nothing more than a fetus; a life within the womb can be seen as either a blessing or an inconvenience, depending upon ones situation in life. Thus, a God-created, human life is seen as nothing more than a lump of cells that has attached itself to a host, tantamount to a cancer.

On the contrary, Psalm 17:14 calls the child in the womb a “treasure,” not a cancer. Children are a joy, not a disease. Even the so-called “mistakes” are not mistakes in the sovereign plan of God (Ps. 139) and thus worthy of life. Yet, like the pagan Medes that rose up against God’s people in Isaiah 13:18, those who push for unrestricted abortions “... have no mercy on the fruit of the womb; their eyes will not pity children.” A nation that continues in the tradition of Molech (Jer. 32:35 et al) cannot endure forever. In our pride we are claiming to have the best days ahead of us, yet the blood of the millions of innocent children rises around us.

The real cancer is not our unborn children, but the humanistic, self-centered pride that lies festering in our hearts.

New water tower logo a welcome change

Notes written on a water tower...
OK, not really, but I can't let the fall sports season go any further without commenting on the new face watching Anderson County sporting events.

In case you have not been to any Bearcat football or soccer games there is a permanent spectator to the northwest of Hol- lie Warford Stadium and from this corner, it is a great addition.

When the City of Lawrenceburg painted the water tower that sits on Highway 127, across from The Anderson News office, and overlooks the Anderson County High School athletic complex, the decision was made to spruce it up a bit for athletic contests.

It was about time. For years, the school side, which had an obvious place for something to tout community pride, was just blank. The tower was plain vanilla while several of the athletic programs were hot and spicy, and were among Kentucky's best.

Since the tower was painted, there have been some complaints that the logos visible from 127 - a Bearcat spinning the city logo on one finger - is too small to really tell much about them.

Agree.
But the feedback I have heard about the school-side artwork has been overwhelmingly positive. Basically, it looks like a wild feline on steroids reminding fans they are at the "Home of the Bearcats."

I have heard a few comments that the logo does not look like a traditional Bearcat, but if we want to get technical about things, the traditional Bearcat does not look like a bearcat, either.

You can look it up.
The animal that is commonly called a "bearcat" is actually a critter officially named "binturong." It is native to southeast Asia and its North American existence is limited to zoos.

Several years back, the good people at the Cincinnati Zoo allowed a real bearcat to crawl all over a guy who writes about Bearcats.

And that is the intent of the new logo overlooking the Anderson fields: The Bearcats will crawl all over any opponent on the way to victory.
I like it.

*Watching the New York Jets Monday night is how I like seeing Rex Ryan. He was on the sidelines doing what he loves.

Last week, however, I joined a good number of Anderson County residents in seeing Rex, his twin brother Rob, who now coaches with the New Orleans Saints, and their father, former NFL coach Buddy Ryan, in a sad moment.

Buddy's wife, Joan, passed away recently after a long illness. Her visitation and funeral were last Tuesday at St. Lawrence Catholic Church in Lawrenceburg.

The Ryans lived on Herndon Road for quite some time and the twin sons were often around town. Buddy sold the farm and is now living in Shelbyville, but still maintains some ties to Anderson County.

Over the years I got to somewhat know Buddy and Joan Ryan and I always found her to be a delightful person who always had a hug for her neighbor who was also a sports writer.

Our sincere condolences to the Ryan family.

*Major kudos to the Anderson County boys' golf team, which was making its first state tournament appearance since 1994 this week. They won a playoff to advance.

Also, major congrats to Lady Bearcat golfer Kaitlyn Riley, who qualified for her fourth state tournament in as many tries this year. That is an accomplishment few high school athletes, regardless of the sport, ever attain.

Nothing fancy, nothing funny

Bearcats stick to ground, roll past Woodford

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

VERSAILLES - There would be nothing strange happening at Woodford County Stadium Friday night.

Anderson County saw to that.

Well, almost nothing. Woodford County got hit with a delay of game penalty when the Yellow Jack- ets' homecoming festivities went a bit too long at half- time, but all that did was shorten Anderson's march to the inevitable, a 38-3 romp past Woodford in high school football action.

On a night when there were some surprising scores statewide, the Bearcats simply took care of business better than Bachmann Turner Overdrive ever did. Ander- son dominated like a highly- ranked team should.

The Bearcats racked up 420 yards of offense and did so without completing a pass in the second half. Anderson rolled up 20 first downs, 18 on the ground, and held the ball for nearly 31 minutes. So overwhelming was the Bearcat defense that Woodford got inside the Bearcat 45 only twice.

There was nothing fancy for a Bearcat team that is normally high-tech and high-octane. Friday, it was five yards and a cloud of AstroTurf.

"Coach (Mark) Peach said to come out and run the ball, because (Woodford) was running a 3-man front on us," said junior receiver Dusty Puckett, whose 22-yard catch was one of only three Anderson completions and the longest one of the night.

Puckett also had an inter- ception in the third quarter. "He challenged us (at

Anderson senior to cap career at state meet

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Kaitlyn Riley knows she has only one more tournament left in her high school golf career and she has every inten- tion of making it memo- rable.

The Anderson County senior is planning on 36 more holes and a fin- ish in the state's Top 10 when the Leachman Buick-GMC-Cadillac/ KHSAA girls' state golf tournament gets under- way Friday at Bowling Green Country Club. Riley, who qualified for the state as an individual competitor all four years of her high school career, will be teeing off at 8:27 a.m., Eastern time.

"I think I have a chance if I play my best," Riley says of the Top 10.

Last Monday, things might not have looked great for Riley as she had to go to a three-way playoff for the final state spot. It was the third time Riley had played extra holes for a state berth.

Bearcat boys playing in state this week

The Anderson County High School boys' golf team is making its first appearance in the state golf tournament since 1994 this week. The Bearcats were to tee off Tuesday morning after press deadlines.

Anderson News sports editor John Herndon was planning to be in Bowling Green for the tourna- ment and will provide updates on Twitter. He will also have a summary of the Bearcats' trip to the state online at www.theandersonnews.com.

For complete state golf tourna- ment coverage, see the Oct. 16 edition of The Anderson News.

"Every year, I have been in a playoff," Riley said. "I just go out there and play. Whatever hap- pens, happens."

What happened last Monday on the No. 1 hole at Danville Country Club was vintage Riley, per- forming her best when the pressure was turned up the most.

Shooting a five-over 77 for the 18 holes last Monday, Riley found herself deadlocked with Judianne Speech of West Jessamine and Jane Watts

Anderson pulls away in tie-breaker

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

SHELBYVILLE - Rivalry contests are supposed to induce nail- biting, hair-pulling and just about every other form of self-destruction but last Thursday's vol- leyball match between Anderson County and Shelby County might have taken things to some new extremes.

The Lady Bearcats outlasted Shelby in a key 30th District contest, 3-2 in games and did so on a night when neither team forged a lead of more than seven points. Ander- son finally did that in the tie-breaker, jumping out to an 8-1 lead in the fifth game.

After seeming to be in control (18-12) in the fourth game, the Lady Bearcats saw Shelby rally for a 25-20 win, causing reason for concern in the Anderson camp.

"(Assistant coach) Bobby (Hardin) and I were so proud of them when they came back. It showed that they really did want it,” Anderson coach Courtney DeLong said. “We were concerned a bit, but mainly because they don’t realize their potential. They can go so far if they have confidence in themselves and their team. They’re so young that it’s been a struggle for Bobby and I to get that across to them.”

Anderson County’s Taylor Phillips serves at Shelby County last Thursday. Phillips had several key serves in the Lady Bearcats’ district win.

The Lady Bearcats had taken the first set, 25-20, but Shelby, playing on Senior Night, came back with a 25-22 victory in the second set. Anderson had to earn extra points before posting a 29-27 win in game three.

Getting strong serves from Taylor Phillips and Ally Hayes, Anderson jumped out to an 8-1 lead in the tie-breaker and never allowed Shelby to get within four points the rest of the way.

“We had big plays it seemed from every position on the court,” DeLong said. “It’s just really hard to pick one particular player because when playing five games there were several opportunities for everyone to excel in one way or another.”

The Lady Bearcats, 18-13 heading into this week, were to have played Collins on Tuesday night in the contest that would likely determine the district tournament’s top seed. At 4-1 in the district, a Lady Bearcat win in that one could throw things into a tie-breaker, depending on Collins’ contest with Spencer County, set for Thursday.

The 30th District volleyball tournament is set to get underway on Oct. 21 at Collins High School.

Anderson Co. 3, Spencer Co. 1

Anderson got a big district win over an improving Spencer County team last Tuesday, prevailing 25-14, 26-24, 16-25 and 25-18.

“Spencer County was our Pink Out for Breast Cancer Awareness,” DeLong said. “The girls had a great time and luckily we came out with a win. Bobby reminded them in huddles though that Spencer is a team that gets better with play. Every game they go they have a tendency to improve, which tends to be the opposite of what we do.”

Lady Bearcat volleyball says goodbye to seniors

From staff reports

The Anderson County High School volleyball team will honor seniors Leah Mager and Brooke Marquardt prior to the final home match with Montgomery County on Thursday, Oct. 10.

According to a news release, Mager and Marquardt will be honored “for their outstanding contributions to the program.”

The ceremony to honor the seniors is scheduled to get underway just before the varsity game time of 7:30 p.m.

“These two graduating seniors have helped to make the Anderson County High School volleyball program one to remember with their contributions both on and off the court,” said head coach Courtney DeLong.

“Both of these young ladies have contributed to our team victories this season. Together they showed great sportsmanship, leadership and were the glue that we relied on for our team to bond this year,” added assistant coach Bob Hardin.

Mager, a four year veteran and one of the team captains, “has been the backbone of our team bonding, leadership and success,” the release said. She plays right side for the Bearcats and is a member of the National Honor Society, Beta Club, Spanish Honors Society, FCCLA Vice President of Finance, FCA, Youth Salute, Distinguished Young Woman first runner-up, Distinguished Young Women Talent and Self Expression Award, and active member in church youth group and a county-wide student representative for the Bluegrass Prevention Center.

Marquardt, a four-year veteran and one of the team’s captains, is not only a good athlete but has an incredibly contagious attitude, according to the release. She plays middle back for the Bearcats and is a member of the National Honor Society, Beta Club Community Service Officer, FCCLA, FCA, Youth Salute, Scarlet Miller Spirit of Distinguished Young Woman Award, 2012 Homecoming Princess, and an active member in Hope Community Church Youth Group and Children’s Ministry Lead Teach.

FUNDRAISER SET FOR YOUTH HUNT

Shown are participants in a past youth deer hunt, held each year to allow children who might not otherwise get a chance to hunt try to harvest a deer. A fundraiser for this fall’s hunt is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 10 from 6 to 10 p.m. at Edwardo’s Pizza and Subs on Glenesboro Road, with a portion of the night’s proceeds and all tips going toward the hunt. Volunteers and Fish and Wildlife officers will wait tables during the event, which will also feature a raffle for a new deer rifle. For more information, call David Goodlett at 502-604-3731.

Shotgun-only night hunting for coyotes now allowed

Ky. Dept of Fish & Wildlife Resources

Hunters may now pursue coyotes at night.

New regulations allow hunters to use a shotgun to take coyotes at night year round. Lights or night vision equipment can only be used from February 1 through May 31.

“This new opportunity offers landowners another tool to assist in the removal of coyotes associated with livestock depredation,” said Steven Dobey, furbearer program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. “Coyotes are generally less wary at night and hunting at this time can result in increased harvest success.”

While Kentucky’s General Assembly enacted a law allowing night hunting of coyotes earlier this year, lawmakers left it to Kentucky Fish and Wildlife to create regulations for the seasons. The Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission approved the new regulations in the spring; the proposed regulations recently won all the necessary approvals from legislative committees to open a season.

A shotgun is the only legal firearm for night coyote hunting. Hunters will not be able to use slugs. Decoys and electronic calls will be allowed.

Hunters on private property must have permission from landowners to be there. “In developing these new regulations, Kentucky Fish and Wildlife has taken special precautions to prevent the illegal harvest of antlered deer and minimize human safety concerns,” Dobey said. “No hunter should jeopardize those precautions by trespassing just because they are hunting at night.”

The night light season will correspond with the time of year when deer have shed their antlers. This should lessen the motivation to poach deer. Late winter is also when vegetation is at its lowest, food is most scarce and when coyotes are actively breeding, making them easier to call into a set up. Lights cannot be connected to or cast from a vehicle. Any color of light can be used.

Daytime hunting for coyotes is open year round. Hunters may use shotguns, centerfire rifles, bows, crossbow, air guns with a minimum size of .22-caliber and rimfire rifles during daylight hours.

There is no limit on the number of coyotes which hunters may take at night or during the day.

Best golf quote of the week had to come from Anderson senior Nick Wilson, who sank a 35-foot birdie to spark the Bearcats on the playoff hole.

Wilson is also the grandson of Jim Hawthorne, who coached basketball at Western High School and has been working with the girls’ team at Anderson County Middle School this year.

I asked the quiet senior if he learned the game from his grandfather.

Wilson laughed, then said, “Heck, no!”

Of course, those of us who have been around local sports for a while could have guessed that.

State's top rusher visits Bearcats Friday night

Peach compares West Jessamine star to NFL MVP

By John Herndon
Sports editor

Anderson County's defensive game plan for Friday night could be an exercise in futility before it ever gets tested.

The mission? Stop Devin Taylor.

The odds of that happening? Oh, roughly equal to the chances of going through the grocery store checkout line without reading something about the Kardashians.

It ain't gonna happen.

At least West Jessamine is not counting on it. No one has stopped the Colt star the last two seasons.

Taylor comes into Friday's contest at Anderson's Hollie Warford Stadium as the state's leading rusher, racking up 264 yards a game heading into last week's loss to Montgomery County.

He's currently racked up 1,789 yards and 21 touchdowns in seven games.

Last year, Taylor amassed over 2,400 yards in 10 games to lead the state as a junior.

"Devin Taylor is the closest thing to Shaun Alexander that I have seen in coaching since I started in 1994," Anderson coach Mark Peach

Friday preview

What: Anderson County vs. West Jessamine
When: Friday, Oct. 11, 7:30 p.m.
Where: Hollie Warford Stadium, Anderson Co. High School
Records: West Jessamine 3-4, 1-2 in district play
Anderson Co. 5-1, 2-0 in district play
Last year: Anderson Co. 41, West Jessamine 39
The series: Tied at 6-6.

said, invoking the name of the former NFL Most Valuable Player and Alabama star who played at Boone County.

"I have not seen a player similar to him until now. Devin Taylor has the size, the speed, the agility and the toughness," Peach said. "It will take a total team effort."

Two weeks ago, Taylor carried the ball 39 times for 276 yards against unbeaten Franklin County. A year ago, against Anderson, Taylor ran for 324 yards and four touchdowns.

A year ago, West Jessamine was supposed to be easy pickings for the Bearcats, but Peach had said he was "terrified and mortified" at the prospect of trying to slow Taylor and the Colts. West Jessamine threw a major scare into the Bearcats before Anderson pulled out a 41-39 win. It was a far cry from Anderson's 72-11 win two

"Devin Taylor is really good," Anderson lineman Darius Harvey said Friday after the Bearcats ripped Woodford County. "We will have to stick with our game plan."

West Jessamine, now 3-4 on the season and 1-2 in district play after a surprising 50-28 loss at Montgomery, was expected to be a major player in Class 5A, District 6 before the season, but has been up and down so far.

Quarterback Jackson Pierce has only completed 30 passes for 618 yards, but receiver Carther Hahn has 373 yards on 18 catches.

A year ago, West Jessamine put up a 20-0 lead on the Bearcats in the first half, but Anderson rallied in the second half for the victory.

Peach will be disappointed if his charges perform the same way this year. And the Bearcats know they have to at least slow down the man that some feel might be the state's best running back.

"Devin Taylor is a heck of a running back," Anderson junior Dusty Puckett said Friday. "We will have to try to slow him down."

Added Peach, "West Jessamine gave us all we could handle last year. We won an incredible barn burner. We have our work cut out for us."

halftime) and said we needed to run the ball," added senior lineman Darius Harvey.

Anderson piled up 357 yards on the ground, nearly doubling its previous season-best of 217 from the week before against Montgomery County.

On the other side, Anderson limited Woodford, now 1-5, to 189 yards, the second-lowest total the Bearcats had given up this year. Anderson limited Mercer County to 111 yards two weeks earlier.

"I was so proud of the guys," Peach said. "(Woodford County) had scored 36 points last week against East Jessamine and had a running clock in the second half of that game. Woodford looked like a different team than the first four games. We came into their place. It is their homecoming and they have a great crowd. "We were able to jump on them and win like we did."

If anything, Anderson might have beaten Woodford even worse than the score indicated. Normally almost automatic when in the red zone, Anderson squandered two scoring opportunities inside the Woodford 20, one coming when Woodford stopped the Bearcats on downs inside the Yellow Jacket 2.

Anderson got all the scoring it needed when senior Sam Laytart capped the Bearcats' first drive with a 7-yard scoring run less than four minutes in.

Just over five minutes later, Laytart scored again, this time from four yards.

"We haven't started real good all season," Laytart said. "We got the lead early today and that was important. We had a chance to seal the deal when we came out after halftime."

Anderson appeared to sputter at times through the second quarter, but Peach attributed that to a nice move by Woodford coach Steve Stonebraker, who took notice of the fact that Anderson had thrown for over 200 yards in four of its first five games and boasts one of the state's best receivers in Ross Cox.

"You have to give Woodford County credit," Peach said. "They know we have a quarterback in Zachary Carmichael who is capable of throwing the football. They know we have a great receiver in Ross and a nice complementary receiver in Dusty Puckett. They know that some of our kids in the backfield can catch the ball."

"After the first two drives, they went with a 34 defense with three down linemen. So, at halftime, we talked about our adjustments."

They were simple: Line it up and knock Woodford back.

The Bearcats piled up 257 yards after intermission, all of it on the ground. Cox, a senior, went without catching a pass for the first time since the 2011 regional championship game at Conner. However, with the Bearcats lining up in a wishbone for much of the second half, Cox picked up 100 yards rushing on just six carries.

Woodford had scored late in the first half when Zach Korby drilled a 28-yard field goal, but Cox capped the opening drive of the third quarter with a 10-yard run to make it 21-3.

On Anderson's next offensive snap, Ryan Martin scooted around right end and did not stop until he had run 80 yards to make it 28-3.

Game, set, match Bearcats.

Anderson added a 31-yard field goal from Joe Rose late in the third quarter and completed the scoring with Laytart going in from five yards with 80 seconds left.

Anderson improved to 5-1 on the year, 2-0 in district play. Woodford fell to 1-5, 1-1.

"We were wearing them down some," Harvey noted. "It looked like they were getting a little frustrated. I think we did a pretty good job tonight."

Peach would think Harvey is short-changing the guys in the trenches.

"Our offensive line, I thought, was spectacular," Peach said. "I was so proud of our offensive and defensive lines. At halftime, I challenged them to run the football. Defensively, Coach (Duane) Hammons had a great game plan. We were able to contain their running game. If they can't block us, that makes it very difficult for them to run the football."

While Woodford was not considered a serious threat to the Bearcats, Peach undoubtedly remembered how his teams had struggled with the Yellow Jackets the last two years before pulling away late. Friday, only the final margin was in doubt by halftime.

"We had a lot of players with great games," Peach said. "I was very excited about how we played."

"The way we executed in the second half, I am as excited as I have been all season."

of Woodford County for the final individual berth at the state tournament.

Henry Clay and Boyle County had qualified as teams.

With Speach, Watts and Riley playing the par-5 first hole, the Anderson senior quickly gained the upper hand with a strong second shot that turned out to be the difference. Riley birdied the hole while her two competitors just made par.

"I was actually playing for an eagle," Riley said last week. "The first time I played that hole, I hit almost that exact same spot, so I had the same shot going into the green."

Riley will head to Bowling Green this week as apparently the first Anderson golfer, boys or girls, to make the state all four years of her high school career.

"That is special, knowing that I can represent Anderson County like that and no one else has ever done it," Riley said.

A year ago, Riley finished with a 19-over 163, tying for 28th place in the state. Two years ago, she finished with a 177, good enough for a tie for 44th place.

Riley's sights are set much higher this week.

"I like the course," she said. "It is a tough course and the greens are quick, but in the state tournament, they like that. It is a nice course. I like it a lot."

A veteran of the different atmosphere, Riley plans to use the familiarity with the Bowling Green course to have a strong high school career-ending round.

"I am not going to say I am not going to be nervous," Riley chuckled, "but I don't get as nervous as I used to."

HOROSCOPES

CAPRICORN
December 22–January 19

A senior's health crisis passes, and you have much to celebrate, Capricorn. Bring everyone together for some food and fun. Time is ticking on a project.

ARIES
March 21–April 19

Magic is in the air. Can't you feel it, Aries? Whatever you've been avoiding, now is the time to confront it and deal with it. The results will astound you.

CANCER
June 22–July 22

Fitness goals are re-evaluated, and new strategies are implemented. A face from the past revives an old dream. Go for it, Cancer. A redo makes an interesting point.

LIBRA
September 23–October 22

A situation arises at work, and the outcome is iffy at best. Do what you can to help, Libra, but don't go overboard. The planning for a special event begins.

AQUARIUS
January 20–February 18

Unbelievable, Aquarius. A friend bails on you again. It's not like them to be so irresponsible. Find out what is going on and do your best to get them back on track.

TAURUS
April 20–May 20

Seriously, Taurus, the timing is off. Move the event to another day. A taste of the good life motivates a friend to change career paths. Be supportive.

LEO
July 23–August 22

Cooler temperatures create the ideal backdrop for romantic adventures. Whisk away that special someone. Destiny calls. Do you hear it, Leo?

SCORPIO
October 23–November 21

You're a hard worker, Scorpio, and your home is proof of it. There is no shame, however, in calling in a pro now and then—especially if you are in over your head.

PISCES
February 19–March 20

Money talks, Pisces. Don't dismiss the value of a dollar, especially as it pertains to your talents. You could always use more cash. A deadline is extended

GEMINI
May 21–June 21

Green is in, Gemini. Take a look around your home and find some ways to implement the three R's. Mother Earth and your bank account are counting on you to do your part.

VIRGO
August 23–September 22

Success is a relative term. If you're happy with where you're headed, Virgo, that's all that matters. Cast away the doubts of others and get a move on.

SAGITTARIUS
November 22–December 21

Extreme conditions call for extreme measures, Sagittarius. Think outside of the box and make a plan of attack. You have one shot to get it right.

LIHEAP SUBSIDY PROGRAM TO HELP LOW-INCOME HOUSEHOLDS BEGINS NOVEMBER 12, 2013
 Blue Grass Community Action Partnership will begin the "Subsidy" portion of the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) that provides heating assistance to eligible households on November 12, 2013. The significant cost of energy to heat homes leaves many households unable to fully meet heating bills or purchase sufficient bulk fuel to keep their families safe and warm. Your local Community Action Partnership (CAP) stands ready to help!

A household shall be considered to be eligible for LIHEAP subsidy when the household meets the basic eligibility criteria.

- Makes and completes an application
- Be responsible for home energy costs, directly or as a designated portion of their rent;
- Have a combined household income for the calendar month prior to the month of application, not in excess of 130% of the federal poverty level as listed in the Income Eligibility Guidelines;

- Live in Kentucky when the application is made and apply in the county of residence; and

- Not have liquid resources in excess of $2,000 or $3,000 if at least one person in the household is 60 years old or disabled, ($4,000 if resources are being used for living expenses due to catastrophic illness).

Applicants will need to apply at the Blue Grass Community Action office location in their county of residence.

1. Your most recent heating bill or verification from your landlord that the heating expenses are included in your rent.

2. Proof of Social Security Number or Permanent Resident card (Green Card) for each member of the household.

3. Proof of your household's (all members) income for the preceding month.

4. Picture ID card (driver's license or state identification card)
